BASEBALL A BLESSING.

Erastus Wiman Says Some Fine Things About the National Game.

Amid all the "worrit" of business and commercial interests Mr. Erastus Wiman, of New York, found time to talk exceedingly interestingly on baseball matters last evening at the Duquesne. There are few if any gentlemen more genual and entertaining conversationalists than Mr. Wiman, and he simply becomes enthusiastic when talking about baseball. He has had a long and active experience in that line of pleasure and business; of course he does not believe in terming it business, but believes it to be one of the greatest blessings that is within the reach of usiness men. Mr. Wiman, without doubt, said some of the finest things possible last evening about the national game. During a conver-sation with the writer he said:

"Now, in talking about baseball, let me ex-plain a matter to the public which concerns me considerably. There have been reports in cir-culation to the effect that I was inclined to back up the Ball Players' Brotherhood in their proposed fight with the National League. The per definitely was that I would find money and help to organize another league or association. Now, stories like these are wrong. When the brotherhood was first formed there was a prospect of a conflict between it and the League. I was asked what I would do for the players, and I stated that I could only allow em the use of my grounds. This I would do for anybody, because it is to my benefit to have people visit my grounds. But to offer to set up a rival to the National League would be folly.

ADVICE TO THE PLAYERS.

"I cannot for a moment'believe that the playwill ever offer to do anything of the kind. and what is more they could not command the They may have demands to make, and these demands may be right or they may be wrong. It is not within my province to say; but I have license to say that it would be foolish on the part of the players to force matters to open hostilities. The National League is one of the best managed organizations in the aged in a right way, and when I say that I have clerks in my employ, people will think I ought to know something about pusiness. Well emphatically maintain that the National League is managed better than anything else I League is managed better than anything else I know of; indeed I argue that its management is better than that of the United States Government, and I would rather trust the League government than that of the United States. It is the result of the good management of such gentlemen as J. B. Day, A. G. Spalding and W. A. Nimřek that the players are receiving such big salaries to-day. I think if this fact were better understood by the players there would not be so much grambling and disarrie. would not be so much grumbling and dissatis-faction among them. Depend upon it that what is beneficial for the directors and stock-holders of the club is beneficial to the players,

A POWERFUL FACT.

"The League management knows this, and the history of the organization is one clear and continuous proof of the fact. The players will do well to continue to trust to the honesty and sagacity of the League managers as much as possible. If that management had been bad and dishonest, most assuredly there would not have been such big salaries as there are to-Mr. Wiman continued: "I would like to be more closely interested in baseball than what I am, but I cannot possibly find time to carry out my desires. Of course you know about my experience with the old Metropolitan Club. I experience with the old Metropolitan Club. I have nothing to compilain of on that score. I feel satisfied that the gospel of relaxation is one of the finest gospels that can be preached to humanity, and anything that will attract and pleasurably divert the attention of a man who is weary and worn out by business is a boon. A game of baseball will do this; the points and general features are so beautiful and simple that no mental exertion is needed to understands them, and we can become so interested in the contest that for the nonce every care and anxiety is forgotten. I am a very busy man. I rise every morning at 4 o'clock, and as a role I feel weary about 3 in the afternoon. Then it is that about an hour and fifty minutes at a ball game comes to me as one of the greatest blessings of my life. We should all admire the game."

LOCAL BALL GOSSIP.

Secretary Scandrett Talks About the Home Pitchers.

Rain was again very disastrous with the ball games yesterday. It vetoed all the League games. Three games, although not scheduled, were arranged to take place as follows: Pittsburgs at Washington, Clevelands at Philadelphia and Indianapolis at Boston. The game phia and Indianapolis at Boston. The game between Pittsburg and Washington will be played on Friday.

Yesterday morning Secretary Scandrett received a long letter from Manager Phillips in which the latter spoke highly of the remarkable speed developed by Beam, Mr. Phillips thinks Beam will make a good pitcher.

Secretary Scandrett went on to say that neither Morris nor Galvin has reported for duty yet, and that they will not be sent East. They will probably play in the Indianapolis series, which starts here on Saturday.

STOLEN BASES.

Chadwick's Opinion as to What is a Clean Stenl.

I notice that President Young decides that a base-runner should be credited with a stolen base under the following circumstances: For instance. Quinn was at first base and Ganzel at bat with two strikes and three balls called. As the next ball is nitched Oning makes a dive for second without knowing whether the umpire would call a ball or a strike. It turned out that the umpire called four balls, but Quinn gets credit for a stolen base. This is a correct decision. In estimating stolen bases, there cannot well be any arbitrary rule to govern every not well be any arbitrary rule to govern every case, as chromstances so frequently alter cases. The effort to steal must go into the calculation largely. For instance, the moment the runner at first sees the pitcher's arm move to pitch, and he starts for second, be has attempted to steal without regard to the action of the catcher or the batsmen; and if he reaches the base safely, he is entitled to the credit of the steal, irrespective of a wide throw, a muffed ball, a passed hall, a called ball or a wild pitch; as the very effort to steal may help to cause either the wild throw or the passed ball, as also the must at second.

There are ordinary steals and clean steals, and the latter comprise the minority. But no base can be justly credited as stolen, where the runner at first is induced to start for second after seeing the error made by the pitcher or catcher, to limit the credit of a stolen base to clean steals, would be discouraging to base stealing. A runner will not take the risks under such circumstances that he will when he is given credit for his effort to steal irrespective of the fielding errors the effort may have led to. In order to encourage base-running, I think, a latitude should be allowed, which may justly be reduced hereafter.

Nikirk and McClelland Finally Sign Article

Ed Nikirk and E. C. McClelland, acc panied by their friends, met at this office last evening and signed articles to run a race of one and a half miles on June 15, at Exposition Park The race will be for $250 aside, and each party has put up a forfeit of $50. The second deposit of $100 each is to be made good on the evening of June 8, and the final deposit will be put up on the day before the race. THE DISPATCH is final stakeholder, and has the power to select a referee if the contending parties fail to agree upon one.

The race undoubtedly promises to be one of great interest. There has been a long and weary controversy between the two runners regarding their respective merits as pedestrians, both will go into active training at once, and if the track is good on the day of the race it is likely that fast time will be made.

SCHORR WAS CRAZY.

The Prencher Who Suicided Declared Remantic Lunatic-A Ladies' Man Who Considered Himself Socially Better Than He Was.

PEPECIAL TRLEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. BALTIMORE, May 27 .- Further inquiry into the life of Rev. H. Greenfield Schorr, who committed suicide yesterday, brings to light the fact that he was romantically crazy. He was a great admirer of the fair sex, and was twice engaged to be married, once to a young lady in Pittsburg and at another time to a girl in East Baltimore. Both of these he broke off himself, and then sought others on whom to place his affections. His last flame was a young woman above him in station, and though he brought all his fascinating powers into play, he was unsuccessful in obtaining his namorata's consent.

It is stated that he contracted other entangling alliances, which he feared would soon become known and lead to his disgrace. Those who knew him best say he was a great ladies man, and being a fine conversationalist and very entertaining, made himself exceedingly popular. The fact that he was of humble parentage made him discontented with his lot. Not even his rector knew that his father was a poor cobbler, living in this city. His family

The body was given in care of the poor father whom he never publicly acknowledged, and he will be buried from his parents' humble home. Two Specimens of Unusual Size Secured After a Struggle. PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. BOSTON, May 27 .- Some heavy shark stories were told by two captains who arrived in port to-day, which may have the effect of keeping some people out of the water the coming season. The sharks are of unusual size and seem to be near land. Captain Thurston, of the fishing schooner Sisters, reports that on Saturday a week ago he was fishing about 20 miles off Yarmouth. N. S., when a huge shark was booked by the nose with a cod-hook. They got the monster to the surface alongside the vessel and tried to get a stout new rope over his head, but he bit the rope right through again and again, as though it were cut with a sharp ax. Then they drove a harpoon into the back of his neck and held him while they got into a boat and attacked him with axes, killing him after a desperate struggle. The shark proved to be too large to take on board, so they cut out his liver, which filled 214 barrels, and took aboard the head and tail, letting the body go. This is one of the largest of the species ever seen in those-waters, being 25 feet long and weighing over two tons. His head was as large us a hogshead, and weighed between 600 and 700 hounds. A good-sized boy could crawl inside its open mouth.

Party Uprising.

The new American Minister to Sweden was yesterday presented to King Oscar. Speeches were made expressing the good will existing between the two countries. Belgrade is in a state of ferment, and there has been serious rioting. Twenty-five policemen were injured in attempting to evict Irish tenants yesterday.

STOCKHOLM, May 27.—Hon. W. W. Thomas, Jr., the Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States, to-day received official audience of King Oscar. Shortly after noon Mr. Thomas was waited upon at the Grand Hotel by Count Horn, Master of Ceremonies of the Swedish Court, and conveyed in a royal carriage to the palace. The carriage was drawn by four horses from the King's stable, and was preceded by two out-riders in brilliant uniform. The out-riders galloped in advance, clearing the way, and the American Minister was driven at a brisk trot across the North bridge and up the steep height on which stands the royal residence, overlooking the Maciar Lake and the Baltic Sea. Outside the portal a company of soldiers were drawn up in line and presented arms. The Minister alighted at the western entrance, and escorted by the master of ceremonies, pro-ceeded to the hall of the guard, where a royal body guard, 100 strong, clad in the blue and yellow uniform of the time of Charles XII. were drawn up. Passing between the files, Mr. Thomas was received by the two royal chamberlains and conducted between lines of high officers to the Grand Marshal of the Court, Count Rosen, by whom he was ushered into the royal audience chamber, where the King was standing to receive him.

IN THE ROYAL PRESENCE. His Majesty wore the uniform of a general of the Swedish army and bore on his breast the star and cordon of the Seraphim, the highest order of Sweden, and the star and order of Stol, of the highest order of Norway. The king was uncovered, and his white plumage and chapeau hung on his left arm. The Min ister presented his credentials and said: istor presented his credentials and said:

Your Majesty—I have the honor to place in your hand a letter from the President of the United States of America, accrediting me as Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plempotentiary to Sweden and Norway. It is also my distinguished privilege to bear with me from over the ocean the assurances of the high regard and sincere friendship of the President and people of the United States for Your Majesty and the brother peoples of the Scandinavian peninsula. It is not the first time this pleasant duty has been intrusted to me. Once before Your Majesty graciously received me as the Minister of my country. I then represented 38 States and 55,000,000 of people.

"Six years have flown by. I return the representative ef the same country, but 42 tars now shine from the blue of our flag, and beneath its folds 65,000.000 clitzens march onward to the peaceful conquests of industry. In this grand advance America gratefully acknowledges her indebtedness to Scandinavia.

A LITTLE TAFFY.

A LITTLE TAFFY. No people in the world receive a warmer well of our republic than the sons and daughters of the lotty North. They bring with them th honesty and industry, the patience and forti tude, the hope and valor, the love of truth and fear of God, that have ever distinguished the Scandinavian race and illuminate the pages of its history. Three millions of Americans are proud to trace their origin to Scandinavia.

True and loyal citizens of the Republic, they get preserves warm place in their memories and hearts for Your Majesty's person and for their old home and kinsfolk in the North land.

Their kindest, tenderest greetings I bring with Their kindest, tenderest greetings I bring with me from my own native land to theirs. In coming to Scandinavia I cannot feel that I come to a foreign shore; I return rather to my second home—to a gallant land, whose monarch second home—to a gallant land, whose monarch I have learned to venerate, whose people I re-spect and love, and among whom I have found heaven's best gift to man. Diplomacy between the two countries can never be to me a matter of indifference, or a cold, dry, uninteresting formality.

It is my sincere desire to do whatever in me It is my sincere desire to do whatever in me lies to advance the prosperity of Your Majesty's Government and neople as well as that of the United States, and so long as I represent my country I pledge my best efforts to maintain the good understanding and to draw yet more closely together the bonds of friendship which, uniting the two peoples in the early infancy of the Republic, before Washington was President, or ever our Constitution was adopted, have held unbroken through the lapse of more than 100 eventful years down to this day, and which, God grant, may endure forever."

THE KING'S REPLY. King Oscar in reply welcomed Mr. Thomas was gratified to receive assurances of the friendship of the President and the people of the United States, and was especially moved by the kindly greetings sent to him by the sons and naughters of Scandinavia, who were now in America.

It was his earnest desire that the good undarstanding which had ever existed between the United Kingdoms and the United States might be perpetual. He was confident that Mr. Thomas, who returned with a friendship for the brother peoples formed by old acquaintance, and who was cemented now by even a stronger tie, would well and worthily fulfill his mission in the North land. Upon his own coperation to this end Mr. Thomas could ever rely.

RIOTING IN BELGRADE.

Party Troubles Cause an Uprising, in Which Three Persons Were Killed.

BELGRADE, May 27.—Serious rioting took place here yesterday, resulting in the killing of at least three persons. The trouble was due to the intense antagonism that prevails toward the Progressive party. Last night a mob of anti-Progressists made an organized attack upon the house of ex-Premier Garashanine and The schooner Minnie C, Captain John smashed in the windows and doors with stones. Saunders, captured a large shark 10 miles. The crowd then visited several clubhouses and printing offices of the Progressists and demolished everything upon which they could lay their hands. The gendarmes were powerless and the regular troops had to be called out. The crowd still refused to disperse and the soldiers charged, killing three of the rioters and wounding a number of others. The excitement here to-day is intense, and it is feared the rioting will be renewed.

During the rioting a portion of the mob made a search for hidden Progressists, Five men who had concealed themselves when the trouble began were dragged from their hiding-places and horribly beaten with sticks. Two of them were so savagely treated that they are not expected to live. The house of M. F. Garashanine would have been sacked by the mob had it not been for the opportune arrival of the troops. After smashing in the windows the rioters made a rush for the doors and were breaking them down when the soldiers appears to the same that they are breaking them down when the soldiers apprinting offices of the Progressists and demolbreaking them down when the soldiers ap-peared upon the scene and drove the mob-before them. In the struggle three soldiers were wounded.

The houses were barricaded in the usual way, and the police were totally unable to effect an entrance through the doors. Finally ladders were procured, and with these the attacking party endeavored to enter by way of the windows and roofs.

As the police swarmed up the ladders the inmates of the house rained every manner of missile upon them, and in some cases the ladders, crowded with officers, were thrown violently to the ground. In this way a number of officers received serious injuries. Mind Render Once Had.

Bishop had had two fits in Dr. Robertson's office. The first time was after an operation, when he went into a semi-convulsion and remained unconscious for four hours. He foamed at the mouth, grew slightly rigid, and then relaxed. His respiration was imperceptible and the pulse failed at the wrist, but could be found further up the arm. He was apparently dead, but the application of ordinary tests disclosed the presence of life. His skin was pale and clammy, but his internal temperament remained normal.

Dr. Robertson said that Bishop had expressed to him his fear of being sometime mistaken for dead while in a fit, but had never said anything about fearing dissection alive, or had never told him of any precaution he had taken to prevent such a fate.

CAMPBELL & DICK.

THE MANAGEMENT OF DOGS.

Editor American Sportsman: I was much pleased and greatly interested in the article on the dog and their management that appeared in the Sportsman from the pen of Mr. Hugh Dalziel. To advance the growth and beautify the coat, he advises the use of cocoanut oil. Right. But do your many readers and lovers of the dog know that there is within their reach a more simple and easier obtained article and at far less expense, that answers the same purpose of the oil. This is nothing more nor less than Ivory Soap manufactured by Procter & Gamble, of Cincinnati. I have used it for many years and find it for all practical purposes far superior to anything I have ever used in my kennel. For washing setters I have never found its equal. Its healing properties are wonderful, and for sores and eruptions of any kind invaluable. It leaves the skin soft and clear, furnishes life to the coat, produces a beautiful growth of feather and leaves it smooth and glossy and free from harshness. I use it with lukewarm rain water, which I find is the best. This forms a rich, oily lather, and helps loosen all stubborn scales and blotches of the skin. To those putting dogs in condition for show purposes it is first-class, and does away with the use of oils, eggs, etc. I have no purpose in advising the use of the soap only for the good of the dog. I have no interest, directly or indirectly, have never met, nor do I know any of the manufacturers. But I must give them credit for giving us the best soap for kennel purposes I have ever used. JOHN BOLUS,

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'lvory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.
